

NVMA

Numa is the new standard for air in the office: each person controls their own air at their desk, ending the fight over the thermostat. By providing focused cones of clean air, everyone in the office can be comfortable and breathe cleaner air while buildings save energy by cooling and ventilating people not spaces.

The Numa-I is as smart as it is tough: app control over Bluetooth, occupancy sensing, BACnet interface for BMS integration, airflow and temperature measurement, all enclosed in die-cast aluminum and steel.

Learn more at numaproducts.com