THE BIG DATA PLATFORM FOR BUILDINGS

CONNECT, UNDERSTAND AND USE PLACE DATA TO SEE YOUR BUILDING IN A NEW LIGHT.

Skylight turns Place Data into value. What's Place Data? Place Data is generated by everything that impacts buildings—including design and construction information, live sensors and systems, environment details, financial figures, and most importantly, data from people, like work orders and occupant comments. Place Data is massive, scattered and complex, and growing by the second. But when it's all brought together, the solutions to your building's toughest challenges are right at your fingertips. That's where Skylight comes in.

By connecting the dots with Place Data, Skylight transforms how you manage, evaluate and improve your building. With its advanced, cloud-based architecture, Skylight brings all the information, systems and devices in your building to one place, and Skylight's AI lets you search, analyze and use Place Data to create better building outcomes. In short, Skylight gives you a smarter way to run smarter buildings. Plus, powerful data management and encryption technologies ensure that all data and communications inside Skylight will satisfy the rigorous security and privacy standards of any installation.

A Powerful, Flexible, Smart Platform

The Skylight platform can power limitless applications and tools designed to keep buildings in top physical and financial shape. From facilities management and building performance, to tenant engagement and financial analysis, Skylight has you covered. And the innovation never stops. Skylight is a SaaS platform; its capabilities are being extended and enhanced every day, "behind the scenes," so you're always seeing something new about your building.
